SLOW PLAY

Common sense, courtesy and respecting others will solve the majority of problems with slow play.

All golfers should be aware at all times of their position on the golf course. It is their own responsibility to maintain their position on the course and avoid undue delays. Any group that has lost a complete hole on the group ahead of them should wave through faster groups.

If, it is likely that a ball may be lost, unplayable or out of bounds, a provisional ball should be played before going forward. Players searching for a ball should, as soon as they realise the ball will not be quickly found, signal the group behind to play up; they should not wait until the ball has been declared lost (5 minutes). Play should not continue until it is safe to do so.

All groups are expected to complete a round in approximately 3.5 hours (210 minutes); each player in the group is responsible for its pace.

If the course is busy do not expect to get through. There is no point in letting someone through if there is nowhere to go.

If a player or group consistently disregards the requirement to observe the etiquette of the game during a round, or over a period of time, Elmwood Golf may ask that player or group to leave the facility and in certain cases terminate their membership.

Courtesy to others is the key to etiquette on the golf course.

GENERAL CONDUCT

The Greenkeeping Team will do all they can to ensure your game is not held up for any longer than is necessary.

Players should at all times co-operate with greens staff to facilitate course maintenance

Whilst the flagstick is removed from a hole, players must not play to that green until the flagstick has been returned to the hole by greens staff.
